

Statutory Declaration and Certified Copy

A Statutory Declaration, also called a 'Stat Dec', is a statement you write, which is confirmed to be true in the presence of an authorised witness.

You can buy a 'Stat Dec' form from the Post Office or print one from www.ag.gov.au/Statutorydeclarations

A Certified Copy is a photocopy of an original document (for example, your Driver Licence), which has been signed by an authorised witness.

The witness must view the original document and the photocopies together, and provide all of the following information on every page:

- ▶ the statement "I certify this to be a true copy of the original..."
- ▶ their full name, signature and date,
- ▶ their qualification giving them the authority to witness documents,
- ▶ their registration or identifying number,
- ▶ their job title, company name, and stamp of business or equivalent.
